CAREER PROMPT KIT

The Job Search Assistant Prompt Kit

Organize your experience, adapt an application, and rehearse interviews with prompts that keep every claim grounded in your real work.

> How to use this resource: Choose one idea, adapt it to your needs, and review results carefully. AI tools can make mistakes; check important information and protect private details.

Build a truthful evidence bank

- Write down projects, responsibilities, tools, outcomes, and dates that you can verify.
- For each accomplishment, note your own contribution and how you know the result.
- Never invent certifications, employment dates, metrics, or qualifications. AI should improve presentation—not create experience.

Understand a role

- Prompt: “Summarize this job description into required skills, preferred skills, and responsibilities. Quote or paraphrase only what appears in the posting. Identify gaps I should assess; do not infer that I have a skill.”
- Compare the summary with your evidence bank. Mark strong matches, partial matches, and honest gaps.

Shape a resume draft

- Prompt: “Using only my notes, suggest concise bullet drafts for the [role]. Preserve the meaning, do not add numbers or accomplishments, and mark every phrase I need to verify. Here are my non-sensitive notes: [notes].”
- Review each bullet for accuracy, specificity, and relevance. Adapt it to your experience and local application norms.

Practice interviews

- Prompt: “Act as a practice interviewer for [role]. Ask one question at a time, wait for my answer, then give feedback on clarity and evidence. Do not write an answer for me unless I request an example structure.”
- Use a real example from your experience. Prepare context, your action, and the outcome without exaggerating.

Application and privacy checklist

- Confirm names, role title, dates, links, and contact information before sending.
- Remove private identifiers and confidential employer information before using any AI service. Check its privacy settings before uploading a resume.
- Read the final application aloud. Your examples should be true and sound like you. AI does not guarantee interviews or employment.
